

Congress To Tackle Newsprint Problem; Will 'Do Something'

Future of Some Smaller Newspapers Threatened; More Cars Pledged

Washington, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Three newspaper publishers are in line today for appointment to the newly-appointed house committee to investigate newsprint and other paper supplies.

They are Representatives Clarence J. Brown (R-Ohio), who will be chairman of the seven-member committee; Robert L. F. Sykes (D-Ill.), and Paul Shafer (R-Mich.).

Their appointment by Speaker Martin is expected in time for the committee to hold its initial session early next week in keeping with Brown's promise to "tackle this critical problem quickly and do something about it."

Slated to serve with the trio of publishers are Representatives Richard Harless (D-Ariz.), Lindley Beckworth (D-Tex.), and Charles A. Wolverton (R-N.J.), all of whom, along with Brown, were members of a house interstate subcommittee which investigated the newsprint situation during the 79th congress.

The seventh member may be chosen from a group of congressional publishers including Representatives Francis Case (R-SD), and Charles Vursell (R-Ill.).

May Close Small Papers
The house set up the committee yesterday by a vote of 269 to 100 after Brown told members the shortage of newsprint may force some smaller newspapers to suspend publication.

The group's first objective, the Olan said, will be to bring about a fair distribution of available supplies and then to inquire into possible sources for expanded production of newsprint and all other paper.

The house ordered the committee to concentrate its attention on:

1. The short-range and long-range possibilities of increased production in the United States and Alaska.
2. The prospects for obtaining increased supplies from Canada and other sources outside the United States.
3. The extent to which agencies or officers of the government may be able to help obtain increased production.

MORE CARS PROMISED (By The Associated Press)

New effects of the nation's long-building shortage of railroad freight carriers were reported today after steel producers promised to allocate more steel to building of new cars.

Industrial and railroad spokesmen agreed that the shortage was a long-term problem that would not be solved immediately.

Meanwhile, shipments of fuel oil, newsprint, coal, grain, lumber, farm produce, manufactured products and raw materials were held up at various points because box cars, gondolas, and tank cars were insufficient to carry all the tonnage.

The latest step toward relief was made in Washington yesterday (Wednesday). Senator Reed (R-Kas.) said major steel companies had agreed to furnish enough steel to build 10,000 new freight cars monthly. Previously steel men had promised steel

U. S. Feared Nazi D-Day 'Death Rays'

Washington, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Strong rumors that the Germans would use radioactive "death rays" prompted the allied high command to scatter soldier specialists with Geiger counters through the first D-Day assault waves.

This was disclosed today when Col. Kenneth D. Nichols, retiring district engineer of the Manhattan atomic bomb project, related in an interview how worried scientists "briefed" Gen. Eisenhower and Maj. Gen. Paul Hawley, the army surgeon general, on the possibility.

The potential demoralizing effect of something which troops "couldn't see, hear or smell," was so great, Nichols said, that only the top command was told the desperate Germans might have sown the Normandy beaches with lethal radioactive materials.

The colonel said the scientists were so convinced the Germans were ahead of the allies in atomic research that they even "conceived the possibility of the Germans using atomic bombs" to defend the French coast.

Nichols, a wartime brigadier general, is returning to his alma mater, West Point, as professor of mechanics.

"The general impression was that in 1941 and 1942 the Germans might have been ahead of us," said Nichols.

Marshall Receives Red-Morgan Dispute

New York, Feb. 27.—(AP)—A landlord-tenant dispute between the Morgan estate and the Soviet purchasing commission, involving the old J. P. Morgan estate at Glen Cove, N. Y., has been placed before Secretary of State George C. Marshall, counsel for the estate said today.

The attorneys, Jacob J. and Jay O. Kramer, claimed that the purchasing commission had not paid the quarterly rent due Feb. 1, was refusing to pay an estimated $25,000 damage to the property and was claiming diplomatic immunity.

The Kramers who represent Morgan Island Estates, Inc., said they wrote to Secretary Marshall Tuesday on the ground that the case raised the problem of how American citizens could enforce contracts with agents of foreign governments here.

The Morgan property, with 316 acres, was leased by the Soviet purchasing commission in 1945 at a $15,000 annual rental.

Jacob L. Kramer said the Russians denied all liability on the ground that the purchasing commission's activities were ended Jan. 1 by a federal order which applied to all purchasing agencies of foreign governments.

However, Isidore G. Needleman, attorney for the Russians, denied there had been any claim of immunity, and said that the Kramers offered to permit the Russians to cancel the lease for $10,000, a figure later reduced to $7,500, for a complete release from rent and damages Kramer said the offer to settle for $10,000 was for the exact amount due, and did not include damages.

Counsel for both sides agreed that the Russians plan to move from the Morgan estate and will use another estate they purchased nearby.

Drop Charges Against Alleged Jewel Thief

Chicago, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Proceedings to extradite Mrs. Evelyn Morris, 46, of Chicago, to Ft. Dodge, Ia., were dismissed in February court today when the state informed Judge Charles S. Dougherty an Iowa grand jury had declined to indict her after an investigation of a jewel robbery.

Mrs. Morris was arrested Jan. 15 as she left the Illinois Masonic hospital with both legs in casts as the result of an automobile accident Dec. 21.

Police of Fort Dodge had asked that she be returned there in connection with their investigation of a $12,000 jewelry store diamond theft in November.

She was charged with grand larceny and released on $5,000 bond by the felony court but that charge was dropped today when Robert L. Donigan, assistant state's attorney, reported he had been informed the Webster county, Iowa, grand jury on Feb. 20 had refused to indict her.

Trainload of Steers
$100,000 Top Price

Chicago, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The trainload of 418 steers and one cow brought to the Union stock yards from the farm of Julius Snoozy of Centerville, S. D., was sold for $100,705.12 and veteran employees of the yards agreed it was the largest amount ever paid to an individual.

The cattle were brought to market by Snoozy's two sons, Melvin and Everett, who deposited the check in a bank before starting out to see Chicago's sights.

The cattle weighed 488,750 pounds on the hoof, averaging 1,137 a head.

The Snoozy boys said their previous record check was $75,000 received last year for a smaller shipment.

Responsibility for 'Hellship' Voyage Charged to Eight Japs

Tokyo, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Allied headquarters legal section formally accused eight Japanese today of responsibility for a "hellship" voyage from Manila to Japan during which more than 1,500 of the 1,619 prisoners aboard perished.

"No cases can compare with the torment and torture suffered by our soldiers aboard the Oryoku Maru, Brazil Maru and Enoura Maru on the voyage from Manila to Japan in December, 1944 and January, 1945," Alva C. Carpenter, chief of the legal section, said.

The defendants, including former Lt. Junsaburo Toshino, commander of the prisoner of war escort guard, and Shunroku Wada, interpreter who commanded in his absence, will go on trial in Yokohama March 6 before a U. S. Eighth Army tribunal.

The Japanese loaded 39 allied national and 1,589 American prisoners — 1,100 of them officers — mostly of field grade rank — from Bilid prison in Manila into three holds of the Oryoku Maru,

Night Work Shifts Planned by Attlee During Coal Crisis

Poses New Test for Social- istic Government; Temperatures Rise

London, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Scotland and northern England lay buried under several inches of fresh snow today but throughout the British Isle temperatures rose slowly after nearly six weeks of near-record cold weather.

Air ministry forecasters predicted scattered snow for the north-west and sub-normal night temperatures, but said warmer weather during the day was in prospect for most areas.

Dalwhinnie, in Scotland, and Dublin, with minimums of 25 degrees above zero, were the coldest spots in the island last night. For the first time since Feb. 10 London night temperatures remained above freezing.

The slow thaw spread to western Europe, but in Scandinavia there was no relief from the cold.

At Tydal, Norway, the temperature plunged to 58 below zero (Fahrenheit). Regular bus service was inaugurated over frozen Lake Mjoesa, north of Oslo.

Extreme sub-normal temperatures were reported from Denmark and Sweden.

Berlin shivered in a 10 above zero (Fahrenheit) temperature, and the weather bureau said no relief from the prolonged cold wave was in sight.

Moscow radio reported the temperature had risen to above freezing there.

Night Shifts for Britain
Meanwhile Britain's tradition-shattering decision to introduce the night shift in British industry was expected today to confront the Labor government with one of the toughest tests it has faced in its 19 months in power.

The government's plan to inaugurate night working shift—which have been resisted bitterly for many years by British trade unions forming the backbone of the government's support—was announced in the House of Commons last night during debate on the grave coal and power-crisis which has closed many industrial plants and brought discomfort to the

Open Parole Probes for Malaria Victims

Joliet, Ill., Feb. 27.—(AP)—The state parole board today opened special hearings which may bring preferred paroles to 159 of 445 state prison convicts who voluntarily became malaria fever victims to aid research in the disease.

Dr. Alf S. Alving of Chicago, supervisor of Illinois' part in a national anti-malarial project, announced recently that experiments carried out over three years at the penitentiary "exceeded all hopes or expectations." Warden Joseph E. Ragen said participating convicts would receive preferred parole consideration because of their voluntary aid.

Hearings which opened today will consider cases of the 159 participants serving indeterminate sentences. The parole board determines when these men shall be released.

The other participants, serving fixed sentences, will have their records reviewed by the parole board, and the board then will make recommendations to Gov. Dwight H. Green. Only executive clemency could affect their cases.

In this class, which will be heard soon, is Nathan Leopold, serving a life term and 99 years for 1924 "thrill murder" of 11-year-old Bobby Franks.

Approval of U. S. Trusteeship Plan Appears Absolute

Lake Success, N. Y., Feb. 27.—(AP)—The United States plan to continue sole administration of the Japanese-mandated islands under a United Nations trusteeship appeared today to be headed toward almost certain approval by the security council March 7.

As the delegates were called into session at 2 p. m. to resume debate on the British-Albanian mine-laying dispute, some of them still were awaiting instructions from their governments on the trusteeship proposal. However, a majority, including Soviet Russia, were reported to favor the plan "in principle."

The only opposition was expected to come from Great Britain and Australia, but this was not certain. Informed quarters said Britain could be expected to object to action at this time on legal grounds, but that she would not go so far as to veto the U. S. proposal. Australia was awaiting final instructions.

Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko, in accepting the substance and main terms of the American plan, offered three amendments at yesterday's meeting, but most delegates felt that he would not veto the U. S. draft agreement even if his amendments were rejected.

Russian Amendments
1. That the draft agreement drop the provision that the islands would be administered "as an integral part of the United States."

2. That it add the words "or independence" after the words "toward self-government" in the section in which the United States proposed to guarantee the

Auto Insurance Rates Are Hiked

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 27.—(AP)—The state insurance department said today it had approved increases in automobile liability insurance rates filed by the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters.

The new schedules will hike rates for bodily injury liability policies about 25 percent and restore them substantially to 1941 levels, the department said. Property damage liability rates will advance about 30 percent.

The increases will become effective for new policies March 17 and for renewal business May 1.

Claims Increase
Companies that write most automobile liability insurance in Illinois are members of the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, a rating organization.

A department spokesman said the rating bureau's new schedules were accompanied by experience data showing increases in accident and claim frequency.

The data also reflected increased claim costs for automobile repairs and awards in personal injury cases.

Commercial car liability rate boosts also were approved. These amounted to 10 percent on bodily injury liability policy; and 40 percent on property damage liability.

Today's Acts, Talks in Nation's Capital Summarized by AP

Activities on Capitol Hill Briefed by Writers for Telegraph Readers

Washington, Feb. 27.—(AP)—A House Merchant Marine subcommittee today subpoenaed Secretary Marshall to bring before it the state department's papers concerning 95 ships lent Russia, but the order was suspended temporarily when the state department indicated it would produce Russian correspondence in the matter.

Rep. Bradley (R-Mich.) chairman of the full committee, suspended the order shortly after the subcommittee, headed by Rep. Weichel (R-Ohio) had issued the subpoena for Marshall to appear and produce all records and communications dealing with the maritime transfer of the United States ships to Russia during the war. They never were returned.

Bradley said Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson promised him by telephone to appear in his office at 3 p. m. (CST), with copies of state department correspondence with Russia concerning the ships.

He told a news conference he regretted the subpoena had been issued because Gen. Marshall "doesn't know a damn thing about those Russian ships."

The house group got testimony from Undersecretary of State William Clayton earlier this month that the state department has been trying to get the ships back from Russia, but he declined to give

Lowden Bequest to Foundation at End

Chicago, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The Farm Foundation announced today it had abandoned a four-year-old experiment under which a 21,000-acre Arkansas plantation was managed as a laboratory for studies in southern farm tenancy and ownership.

The plantation, willed to the Foundation by Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois in 1913, was to have been operated in the interest of the tenants and sharecroppers, that they might own and farm family-sized units of land, advance their levels of living, and improve their economic and social status.

However, in 1913, Dr. Joseph Ackerman, associate managing director of the Foundation, said operation of the plantation "has put us up to our ears" in southern agricultural problems.

Infestation of Johnson grass, seepage of water from the Arkansas river during spring floods, parching a few months later, and lack of modern equipment were a few of the difficulties confronting the foundation.

Once One of Best
"At one time the plantation was one of the ten best in the south. Now it is one of the ten poorest," Ackerman said in 1945.

Today, the Foundation issued a statement saying "Because the estimates of needed capital represented sums beyond the available resources of the Foundation, and because the element of time required to develop the experiment out of the income from the plantation appeared impracticable, the board of trustees, under the specific authorization of the terms of the will, decided to dispose of the property."

The Foundation said no decision as to policies of sale had been made.

State Conservation Officials to Attend Sportsmen's Dinner

Girl, 17, Abducted; Found Burned, Cut

Long Beach, Calif., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Possibly the victim of another sadist, a pretty 17-year-old high school girl was found nearly nude, her body gashed and burned with a cigarette, beneath a railroad underpass last night.

A five-foot, 112-pound blonde, she was identified by police as Jacquelyn Mae Stang, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Stang. Stang is a Long Beach businesswoman.

A passing motorist saw her lying below an embankment, where she apparently had rolled after being tossed from a car. Unconscious when picked up, she emerged from the coma in a hospital and, after emergency treatment, was permitted to go home.

Police quoted doctors as saying she had not been raped.

Detective-Inspector C. J. Novotny said the girl told him she was followed by a man as she made her way home from Polytechnic high school about 6 p. m. yesterday.

Burned on Wrist
"I ran," he quoted her, "but he grabbed me when I was near an alley and that is all I can remember. It felt like he put a hand in a leather glove over my mouth."

She was not found until several hours later. Doctors treated lacerations across her chest and a burn on her wrist, which they said had been caused by a lit cigarette. She had been bound with strips cut from her own underwear.

Novotny said the girl was unable to furnish any description of her assailant, but would be questioned further.

Wholesale Prices of All Food Jump

Washington, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Wholesale prices on all commodities jumped to an all-time peak last week, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today.

This was the second consecutive weekly rise to a record level and could mean higher prices later on at the corner grocery and other retail stores unless housewives balk at paying them.

The BLS coupled its wholesale price report to news that its cost of living index—based on prices paid by the consumer—declined approximately 1 of one per cent from mid-December, 1946, to mid-January this year.

Despite the decline, which nipped a 10-month steady advance, the cost of living was still 17.9 per cent higher than a year earlier.

Dollar Value Shrinks
BLS economist figures this means that a housewife's dollar shrank about 15 cents in those 12 months. In other words, it took a dollar on Jan. 15 to buy what 85 cents would purchase a year earlier.

The latest jump in wholesale quotations have not yet been translated by BLS into its consumer price figures—which are compiled on a monthly basis.

The BLS wholesale price index, reflecting prices on about 900 commodities in wholesale markets, reached last week 144.3 per cent of the 1926 average. This was up 1.2 points from the preceding week.

The mid-January consumers index stood at 151.1, compared with 153.3 in mid-December. The Fourth Antarctic Expedition Is Termed Successful by Adm. Cruzen

By Alton L. Blakeslee
Associated Press Correspondent
Representing the Combined American Press

Aboard U. S. S. Mount Olympus, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The fourth American expedition exploring the mysteries of the Antarctic has been "very much a success" both in discoveries and in polar training for the Navy, Rear Admiral Richard H. Cruzen said tonight as this flagship began her long journey home over a fog-veiled sea.

The Mount Olympus and the Burton Island are steaming toward New Zealand with their work finished, and Cruzen declared "the time is getting short" for further flights by the eastern or western wing groups.

Cruzen, the task force chief, said naval personnel on the expedition got a "real insight into the type of problems you have to risk in Polar regions, and that was the primary objective — to find out what our problems are."

Invaluable navigation experience was obtained in forcing through the icepack, which scarcely could be tougher. All ships, despite thin hulls, were brought through successfully, although the Merrick lost a rudder and other vessels suffered minor damage.

Cruzen said the damage was less than he had expected.

In aviation exploration, Cruzen said, "one of the most surprising things was the ability of scaplanes to operate in the open sea from scaplanes tenders which had been built only to service scaplanes in side sheltered harbors."

Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd's flight over the South Pole obtained good photographic coverage of new areas, especially in penetration beyond the Pole, where a plateau was found to extend flat and featureless, Cruzen continued.

Teachers Reject Pay Increase Plan

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 27.—(AP)—

Teachers federation tentatively rejected in advance today a proposed state pay increase plan which administration leaders had hoped would send the 2,400 striking Buffalo teachers back to their classrooms.

The statement came amid reports of students disorder and the snow-balling of several non-striking teachers in the four-day walk-out which has halted classes of 71,000 public school pupils.

Raymond J. Ast, president of the Teachers' Federation (independent) believed the proposed plan of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's special education committee would be unsatisfactory because it probably would not become effective until July 1 and "the teachers want action now."

Meanwhile, the principal of school 45, Miss Helen Weis, said "several groups of larger boys" had visited the vicinity of her school and had thrown snow balls at several teachers as they left the school yesterday.

However, Police Commissioner Thomas J. McMahon said there were no reports of vandalism or any damage resulting from boisterousness of school children.

"The non-striking teachers apparently weren't molested although in some instances children had called them 'scabs'," McMahon declared.

Couple Deny Negro Slavery

Los Angeles, Feb. 27.—(AP)—A U. S. Grand jury continued today its inquiry into the FBI's charges that Mr. and Mrs. Alfred W. Ingalls of Coronado and Boston held a housemaid in slavery for 30 years.

Mrs. Helen Ingalls Roberts, daughter of Mrs. Ingalls, was the first witness in the secret session. Mrs. Roberts, wife of an oil company chemist, first made her charges some months ago. Berkeley police said.

Mrs. Ingalls, meanwhile, said of the government's charge that Dora L. Jones, 57-year-old Negro, had been held in bondage:

"She was more like a sister to me than a maid. It is a lie that we failed to pay her."

Of a claim by federal agents that the maid was forced to sleep in an automobile enroute to California, Mrs. Ingalls declared that in Springfield, Ill., "almost within the shadow of Lincoln's statue," an auto court owner refused her a bed because she was a Negro. Mrs. Ingalls said that she and her husband then made the maid comfortable in the car, with warm blankets.

Ingalls, 64, described by Asst. U. S. Attorney William Ritz as a former Massachusetts legislator, and his wife, 62, are at liberty on $2,500 bail each.

Income Tax Return Rules Explained by Jas. Marlow of AP

Here's Fourth of Series of Articles Prepared for Telegraph Readers

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth of 12 stories explaining who must do what about filing an income tax return.)

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington, Feb. 27—(AP)—You're making your 1946 income tax return on form W-2, the withholding statement.

That's the receipt the boss gives you for taxes withheld from your wages or salary in 1946. He must give it to you.

If you worked for more than one boss who withheld tax from you, get a form W-2 receipt from each. You can't, without all the receipts, make a return on form W-2. Without them all, you'll have to use form 1040.

When you have them all, attach them to the form W-2 receipt from your last boss.

That last one is the one you fill out and file. Don't fill out the others.

And—don't send money with it when you fill it out and mail it to the internal revenue collector.

He'll check it. If you owe him money, he'll notify you. After he notifies you, you have 30 days to pay.

You'll get a refund if, in checking your return, he finds too much tax was withheld from you in 1946.

Husbands and wives don't have to worry about filing jointly or separately if they both had 1946 income and can use form W-2 as a separate or joint return.

Can't Lose Either Way

They can't lose either way. When he gets their joint or separate returns, the collector by law must figure out which way is cheaper for them.

If he finds there's any refund due them, he'll send it to them.

The form W-2 you get from your boss is in "original" and "duplicate." Fill in the "original" and send it to the collector. Keep the "duplicate."

On the "original" the boss has written your name and address, his name and address, the amount of money he paid you, and the tax withheld.

That's all on the front of the "original." You don't do anything on the front. Except to be sure your name and address are right.

Turn it over. You answer simple questions on the back.

Here's how:

Questions on Back

Say you're married and have two children. Your income was $4,800 from salary. (Your children had income under $500, but a dependent's income under $500 doesn't count, so forget it.) But your wife had income of $95 in dividends from stock.

On line No. 1 you write your salary: $4,800. On line No. 2 you write your wife's $95 from dividends.

Adding them up, you write the total, $4,895, on line No. 3.

You write your wife's name on line No. 4 where it asks you to. (Your name, written by the boss, already is on the front.)

Then you write "No" to the question: did your wife have any other income besides the $95?

Then underneath that, where it asks, write your income, $4,800, and, right beside it, your wife's income, $95.

Underneath that, where it asks, write your occupation.

Now move across to where it tells you to list your exemptions.

You can claim your two children as exemptions because neither had income up to $500. You write in their names.

(Each exemption means $500 knocked off your total income before it is taxed.)

Since this is a joint return, you and your wife sign. (You alone would sign it if you alone had income or your wife, having income, was making a separate return.)

Having filled it out, you now mail it to your nearest internal revenue collector. Remember: Do not send money with it.

Americans and Reds
Reported in Battle

Seoul, Feb. 27—(AP)—Korean headquarters asserted today that U. S. and Russian troops exchange-ed shots Tuesday along the line between their occupation zones but American Intelligence authorities dismissed it as a minor incident which had been "highly exaggerated".

Intelligence officers said a U. S. border patrol rushed to Paekchon, about two miles inside the American zone, after receiving a report that seven Russians were firing rifles into the town. The patrol saw two Russians hurriedly leaving Paekchon as it approached.

The Korean version said 28 Russians and 11 Americans fired at each other for 14 hours ending at midnight and that four Soviet fighter planes appeared briefly over the area. No casualties were reported.

17,009,000 COMMUNISTS
London, Feb. 27—(AP)—Communists throughout the world now total 17,009,000, delegates to the conference of British Empire Communist parties were informed today.

Soviet Russia, the report said, has 6,000,000 communists, Italy 2,200,000, China 2,000,000, the United States 74,000 and Great Britain 43,000.

Fire Prevention

Early next May, the president's conference on fire prevention will meet in Washington. The groundwork has been largely done, and
a volunteer staff is now at work
preparing for the meeting.

The conference is the result of an emergency condition—an emergency which is of personal and direct interest to every American citizen. Last year, was the most destructive in our history so far as fire loss was concerned. The total approached $600,000,000. December showed the greatest waste
for any single month in 16 years,
and loss of life is at the 10,000-
a-year level.

The conference is staffed by a distinguished list of experts in the field. Among them are representatives of municipal and state governments, federal agencies, and organizations such as the National Board of Fire Underwriters—
leaders in fire prevention activity.
These men will draft an agenda
for the conference, and appoint committees to prepare recommendations. More than 2,000 delegates are expected to attend, and it is believed that a coordinated, national program will be formulated
that will revitalize fire prevention work.

The conference has a big job
on its hands—and it deserves the whole-hearted support of the nation. Our terrible fire toll must be reduced.

Wheels Don't Stop

Those who have been convinced
that a vast system of government
hydroelectric dams, costing untold billions, is necessary to assure
this country adequate electric service would do well to read a news
item which recently came out of California.

The government's great tax-exempt Shasta dam in the Sacramento Valley has cut its output
by fifty per cent—from 4,000,000
to 2,000,000 kilowatt hours a day
—because of draught conditions.
Rain and snow have been far below normal in the region, and there seems no hope of relief this season.

However, the electric company
serving the area long before a tax-built government plant was ever thought of, announced that it has sufficient fuel and other plants to take care of any demand, regardless of the Shasta
dam shortage.

The truth is that the electric

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

(Copyright, 1947, by King

Washington—The Republicans
are skating on thin ice in their budget slashing, and know it. But they can safely make it, and the goal justifies the risk.

As a matter of fact, the ice is thinner than the arguing senators know or indicate in their public statements. From a top finance authority on a recent trip,
I learned what few of the best informed Washingtonians realize
—namely, nearly $100 billions of the federal debt are in short term paper. His calculation from federal reserve board statistics indicated $93 billions were obligations of duration under a year. My investigation concludes that two months ago the treasury had outstanding about $17 billions in bills, $29 billions in certificates of indebtedness, $10 billions in notes,
nearly $6 billions in tax and savings notes, about $25 billions in special issues and 1½ billions in non-interest bearing debt. This totals above $88 billions.

Whatever the exact figure may be, if money again becomes tight or any emergency develops, the treasury would have an unwele-
come financing problem on its hands. A building boom might absorb money to an embarrassing
extent, for instance.

Prudence would seem to require
the refunding of a larger portion of small interest short term holdings into long term bonds. Although the long terms might cost the treasury twice as much in what the books show as interest payments, actually the government
recaptures considerable interest
and the cost is far less burdensome
than advertised.

The press seemed to have an inkling of something like this situation. A survey of newspaper opinion the second week in February before the issue became hot showed a surprising total of only 7 per cent of the newspapers behind the proposed house cut of $6 billions. The Republican house move was disapproved by 28 per cent, 13 per cent of the papers

offered mixed comment, while the remainder was silent.

What the press and public do not apparently understand is that the $6 billions figure is only a little above 17 per cent of the budget. Anyone who knows Washington must realize that a substantial amount can prudently be cut from any budget without damage to necessary government activity. Both press and public have been impressed, for instance, by
the testimony of the generals that national defense would be "immobilized" (they say the navy would
be) by a cut of only 10 per cent in their $11.3 billions. No one seems to notice figures of Senator Byrd (whose figures on any subject have never been successfully disputed to my knowledge)
showing the armed forces budget
proposes to spend $3,100 per man
as compared with $1,306 in 1940.
This is for personal maintenance
alone and does not include munitions
or engines of war.

Any citizen who has been in the armed forces knows 10 per cent can be cut from general military expenditures nearly any time
without delivering the nation into the hands of its enemies. Privately some army and navy authorities concede such a cut would only eliminate extravaganzas.

Byrd, who has made the study
of government waste his foremost
work, was not even a member of the joint committee recommending budget cuts. His independent non-partisan position, however,
has given him a valuable objectivity. He says somewhere around $5
to $6 billions can and should be cut, but he is against the proposed, similar 20 per cent cut in taxes hurriedly, saying this should be delayed at least until the coming July.

From 27 years of intimate connection with government finance,
my personal opinion is that good business is more essential, to the government financial position than anything, and that a tax reduction will help business more than anything. A foolish notion was built up in the Roosevelt era that taxes affect only the rich. That is purely a political argument. The truth is taxes affect all the people far more than they do the rich, who are better able to protect themselves in stress than the average citizen. All of us know
the war taxes, which take up to 90 per cent of what a man earns,
have impaired the working theory
of reward for effort upon which this country is based. I talked to a doctor the other day who said
his business was fine because he had narrowed it down to just what income he needs to live on.
Before the war he did twice as much business. Such people spend their income and thus generate
more business, and of course all business pays the taxes. Taxes are certainly today restraining business activity generally down to the point where a successful man
wants to trim his income, enjoy life more. Thus we will have fewer successful men, and less tax
income to the government.

Unless this condition, forced on
the nation during the war, is corrected now when they say we have prosperity, it will never be adjusted but will become permanent. The treasury will not reduce taxes in a depression or in times of slight business.

Cassie sat down weakly. "No.
For goodness sake."

THEY clustered around her excitedly. Papa had dumped her luggage in the middle of the kitchen floor, and Mama was beginning to set out the dishes for supper.

"Papa! Papa! how could you let him loan you the money! After all, he's not a member of the family any more now."

"It's a strictly business proposition!" Papa said. "And don't you forget it!"

"And Papa's got a thousand baby chicks ordered raised from the hatchery!" Sid added. "And I'm takin' agriculture at school, all about raisin' chickens and pigs and planting gardens."

As Pegler Sees It

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

(Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

The claims of Henry Morgenthau
and Harold Ickes that the memoirs
and documents which they carried away are their private property
are debatable if only on the score
of the actual value of the paper
and the work that went into them.
Neither of these men was known to give himself the worst of it in dealing with the government where perquisites and services were concerned. Morgenthau got Roosevelt to assign a Coast guard plane
to him for trips to his barony in Dutchess county. The ship, itself,
the salaries of the commissioned officers and the enlisted mechanics
and the expensive fuel were charged
to the common man, an item of many thousands of dollars. All this travel was private and not in the line of official duty.

By a theory having a faint color
of legality, Morgenthau got away
with it although there was a direct precedent on which he could have been made to pay. An AP dispatch
from Daytona Beach in June, 1945, reported that his wife had been discharged from an Army infirmary after two months' immurement. Such facilities ordinarily are not available to civilians or their wives and Mrs. Morgenthau was not publicly known to be a member of any of the distasteful
auxiliaries. Like her, Ickes had availed himself of quarters and treatment not once but twice in the Naval hospital. The price, in each case less than $3 a day, bore no
practical relation to the going cost
of greatly inferior accommodation
in the hospitals available to the tax-payers.

Moreover, as Ickes' recordings
will show, if it is true that he faithfully recorded interviews in his office, he admitted that he knew of no legal justification for this. This assumption of privilege and his use of government premises for vacations in Acadia and Olympic national parks, indicates a probability that Ickes did not overcharge himself in the matter of the memorial papers. He might not have charged himself quite enough and might fairly be asked to justify the price he did pay, if any.

The bulk of Ickes' material and the amount, nature and cost of the work of preparing it are left in doubt about. A man who would scrupulously record a charge of
"sermon, $50" in the cost of his wife's funeral should be equally careful to pay something for the clerical work, although the temptation to bill himself in great moderation may be considered.

Like a man operating on himself,
Ickes might have flinched, even if he paid till it hurt, he may have been hyper-sensitive.

Morgenthau has been more confiding about his diaries. We are told that there are already more than 800 bound volumes of about 300 pages each, with more to come, and that the record includes transcripts of conferences and recordings of telephone calls. The paper alone would be a respectable item, much of it consumed when even the bureaucrats were using both sides and single-spacing their propaganda for economy's sake.
The cost of the labor would inspire not mere respect but awe
and if we may use the internal revenue's cold-blooded approach to the tax-payer these would be chargeable, also the wear and tear
on the typewriters, the mimeo-
graphs and even the building.
Morgenthau took a cold view of perquisites or employment such as company cars and houses provided
for executives and charged to corporate costs as operating expense. His policy was to disallow
them and add an approximate
figure to the executives' taxable incomes.

Although some political adversaries may be uneasy lest informal opinions on issues and personalities should now become public,
the dignitaries of the new deal
obviously should be more so if there is to be a vast confiding of political bouddoir intimacies.

After all, they were not one
great happy family, most of them
had something on almost everyone else and even in the friendliest routine could not have avoided the recording of matters that would send many a ruddy blush to many a jaw.

Hopkins was a horse-player and had his rascal moments. Some

ed after school to talk behind his back when cabinet let out. Roose-

vett had a habit of disparaging
men to whom he presented a friendly face. There were the mischievous business affairs of some of the Roosevelt kids which Morgenthau was called upon to straighten out. All this should be in Henry's record and there should be a naive, factual statement of Henry's own patient
maneuvering to come at the old man's soft side and bite him for a new and more luxurious Coast Guard plane to replace his old one.
If all such matters are down in Morgenthau's and other records,
the recovery of the files should be more to the advantage than the discomfort of the Republicans and,
as to the new dealers, vice versa,
although they don't embarrass
easily.

On a sober note, though, we have here a horrid and alarming
suggestion of eaves-dropping.
There have been some disquieting
violations of confidence already in the easy commercial memoirs of opportunists in place. The slurs against Winston Churchill, based on social encounters which he did not seek and couldn't avoid with people whom he otherwise never
would have consented to meet,
have been unanswerable because
the authors were beneath his dignity. It is too bad that the United States had to start this in the world.

This sort of thing could seriously affect the willingness of citizens to accept public service, even in state governments. It is a corruption that should be repudiated by the president now and all his subordinates.

When Al Smith said "let's look at the record" he meant the public record, not intimate conversations, susceptible of doctoring;
which were understood by the victim to be "off the record."

Boy Found Hanging in Cloakroom; Critical

Baltimore, Feb. 27—(AP)— Nine-year-old Bruce Jennings,
found hanging by a woolen scarf
from a hook in the cloakroom of an Essex, Md., school, was reported in critical condition today at City hospital.

Essex police said a teacher discovered the boy unconscious yesterday shortly after she had sent him to the cloakroom as punishment for rapping another third-
grader over the head with a book.

Corporal Harry Freund and Patrolman Carroll Huffines said the teacher, Mrs. Audrey J. Edwards, told them she got no answer when she called him after ten minutes to come out.

She found him with his feet on the floor and his knees buckled,
with the scarf wrapped around his throat and one end secured to the coat hook, the officers said.

14-Year-Old Girl to Face Murder Hearing

St. Louis, Feb. 27—(AP)—Fourteen-year-old Mary Catherine Reardon will go on trial in St. Louis County Juvenile court March 24
on a charge of delinquency by reason of murder.

Circuit Judge John A. Withaus,
who also serves as Juvenile Court
judge, announced the time and place of the trial yesterday after hearing reports of a "social study"
which he had ordered made of the girl.

The girl's attorney, Henry G.
Morris, said he would request a jury trial. Maximum penalty upon conviction would be detention of the girl in a state industrial home
until she reaches the age of 21.

The charge against the girl is
the outgrowth of an automobile accident in which her wealthy father, J. Vincent Reardon, and her 13-year-old companion, Michael D'Arcy, were injured fatally
after the girl allegedly fired a pistol shot into her father's head.

IT was so simple, really.
Mike had said it would be.
But she could hardly believe it.
The courtroom was almost empty.
Divorce was such a common occurrence here.

"Divorce granted!" That's all there was to it. And then she and Mike went out and got into the car
he'd rented and drove into the desert to a ranch-house eating
place for lunch.

"I'm just—plain Cassie Fletcher
again now," she told him, trying to smile.

A sick feeling of desolation crept
through her. How proud she had been, when she and Parker were first married, at the magic his name had evoked. In Mortenville then all she had had to do was give the name. "Mrs. Parker Hamilton," and magic had been wrought. Yet
the name had never rightfully been hers. Had it? Never completely hers. Just a masquerade, worn for a short time, and then
discarded.

Mike had wanted her to fly back
east, but she insisted on taking a train. The longer trip would give her a little extra time to get used to her new status.

Mike kissed her goodbye at the station, and loaded her down with candy and flowers and books. She had a compartment, which was very convenient and private, but rather lonely. You sat alone and tried to read, but the pages of the magazine kept blurring.

"See here!" she told herself.
This has got to stop somewhere.
This feeling sorry for yourself.
This maudlin self-pity.
The train trip was interminable.
The miles seemed to creep by.
Mike had taken a plane, going back to New York to finish up his business there. She missed him terribly.

It was just one week before

she was coming.

New York, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Increasing indications are that the network program scene is to undergo more than the normal amount of spring alteration this year. And earlier than usual, too. Reasons behind the shifts are, of course, unstated but the "trade talk" has been stressing such points as sponsor desire for different types of shows as well as the intention of effecting economies.

Newest developments show: That's Finnegans, comedy skit of CBS on Thursday nights, to close March 20, with the sponsor replacing it with "The Whistler", a mystery drama and a summer feature last year, at a new Wednesday night time.

Roy Rogers of NBC, who this season took over from the old time Saturday Barn Dance, to wind up late in March when the sponsor drops the time.

Joan Davis' CBS Monday sponsor is reportedly to be considering a less costly replacement when her contract is up in June, while the Bob Burns sponsor on NBC Sundays is looking for another show, also after June.

BY BOB THOMAS

(This is the second of two articles on the Academy Awards)
Hollywood—(AP)—At the end of each year movie studios wheel their guns into line and start aiming for academy awards. Despite strenuous objections by Academy leaders, the campaign continues, often without regard to the rules of warfare.

First of all, the studios feel their contenders should reach the public at the deadline for eligibility, the last week of the year. Thus their film is fresh in the minds of the voters, the 1,600 members who have been admitted to the Academy for their "contribution to the industry".

The result is that Christmas week in Los Angeles sees a glutted film market. Nearly all the leaders in this year's race were released then. And those released earlier in the year, such as "To Each His Own" and "Sister Kenny", were brought back in revivals, amid much fanfare.

The studios also work within their own walls. Signs exhorting the favored candidates are placed around the lot. Helpful voting hints are inserted in pay envelopes. Assistant directors drop the word to workers on the sets. There are even reports of two studios' trading votes in categories where they don't compete.

This year's campaigning has seen some of the dirtiest methods ever experienced, including anonymous letters to columnists damning certain contenders. Although these tactics cannot be traced, undoubtedly some originated from the camps of nominees.

Striking out against the politicking is Jean Hersholt, the able and popular president of the Academy. Because he now has no studio connections, he feels he is equipped to lead the fight for more impartial voting. This year he sent a letter to each academy member in which he declared:

"Each year there is criticism of our awards and there have been complaints that studio politics influence the voting. I am sending you this personal letter to urge you that when you receive your ballot you will realize that you have a responsibility to the Academy ideal that individual achievement comes ahead of studio affiliation."

Hersholt led the move which this year changed the awards from an industry-wide election to one restricted to Academy members, "a picked group of industry leaders".

But some observers, such as producer Lester Cowan, feel that the awards will be incorruptible only if the balloting is further limited. Cowan, who was executive secretary of the Academy when the awards were started, favors a return to the original methods of selection by a committee of respected industry leaders. This smaller group, he declares, would limit their consideration to artistic values, and not be overly impressed with costly, commercial productions.

Bevin's Attack on Truman Gives Rise to Much Discussion

And It Also Poses Problem for New Ambassador to Britain

Washington, Feb. 27—(AP)—The problem of smoothing Anglo-American relations troubled by differences over Palestine emerged today as the first huddle for plain-talking Lewis W. Douglas when he takes over the embassy in London.

The transatlantic controversy came to a head in a White House statement describing as "unfortunate and misleading" any British implication that President Truman was playing politics last October 4 when he urged the immediate admission of 100,000 Jews to the Holy Land.

The statement, handed out last night only a few hours after the president chose the one-time new deal budget director as his new ambassador, was issued as a reply to Foreign Secretary Bevin's tart assertion to parliament Tuesday.

Bevin declared Truman's October remarks during the congressional election campaign, "spoiled" negotiations which might have led to a settlement of the Arab-Jewish conflict.

"I really must point out," the British cabinet officer told Commons, "that in international affairs I cannot settle things if my problem is made the subject of local elections."

The White House statement made publicly by press secretary Charles G. Ross, retorted:

White House Statement

"The impression that has arisen from yesterday's debate in the British Parliament that America's interest in Palestine and the settlement of Jews there is motivated by partisan and local politics is most unfortunate and misleading."

It declared that Truman's October stand simply reiterated the position he had communicated to Prime Minister Attlee as long ago as August, 1945, and made public in November, 1945.

"America's interest in Palestine," the statement continued, "is of long and continuing standing. It is a deep and abiding interest shared by our people without regard to their political affiliation."

Bevin's part in the Palestine debate touched off a brief flurry on the senate floor.

Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.), told his colleagues he thought it was "most unfortunate" and "almost astonishing" that the British foreign secretary in effect had accused the president of the United States of a "cheap political trick."

Senator Brewster (R-Me.), termed Bevin's "amazing" statement "apparently the workings of a distressed conscience."

MACKENZIE'S ANALYSIS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin's feverish charge that President Truman spoiled England's negotiations over the Palestine issue last autumn is highly illuminating—not as regards the Holy Land, to be sure, but as indicating the British government's anxiety regarding its own political future.

Bluntness is one of Bevin's characteristics, but this time he outblinded himself. His rebuke to the president was, to put it mildly, a most unusual development between allies. Moreover it didn't add much to our fund of information, for London long ago made it plain in more diplomatic fashion that England wasn't pleased with Truman's call for the admission of 100,000 Jews into Palestine.

Why then did Bevin raise the matter in such combative form on the open floor of the House of Commons several months after the event? The answer, as I see it, isn't hard to find, and it is this:

Serious Difficulties

Prime Minister Attlee's government—trying to turn a new furrow with England's first Socialist plow—finds itself in serious difficulties. The country's economic position is grave, as the government itself has disclosed to the world within the week. The people are enduring an austerity of life exceeding that of wartime. The granting of independence to India and Burma is like an atomic bomb on the empire. There are many other ills, of which the Palestine situation is one.

Naturally Prime Minister Attlee's opposition, headed by the politically shrewd Winston Churchill, has been blistering the government with charges of bungling. Even as Bevin was addressing Commons, the Conservative House of Lords was raising hoo with the decision to withdraw from India by June, 1948. And of course the opposition has ridden the Socialists hard over the handling of the Palestine issue.

Not Whole Story

But that's not the whole story. Discontent has been showing itself among the general public which gave the Socialists their majority in the election of 1945. These voters, by the way, included many Conservatives who decided to give Socialism a chance to show what it could do. Now the austere life and the unhappy economic position have got them down.

So we find the Attlee government fighting, with back to the wall for its life. Foreign Secretary Bevin's outburst was part and parcel of that fight—an effort to appease a relentless opposition.

Under normal circumstances the present government has more than three years to run before another general election is due. It has such a large majority in Commons that, unless a considerable number of its own followers should desert, it needn't fear being overthrown on a vote of confidence.

However, Socialism is on trial in England, and the record which it makes during the life of this government will determine whether it can survive there. Attlee is battling not only to maintain his position now, but to achieve a record which will continue his party in power at the next election.

There you have, I think, the real answer to Bevin's speech. One suspects that in the long run he will find it unprofitable—a jump from the trying-pan into the fire, so to speak.

NO COMMENT IN LONDON

London, Feb. 27—(AP)—The British foreign office declined to comment today on the White House reply to Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin's charge that President Truman had spoiled British changes of bringing about a settlement of the Palestine problem. The foreign office said any further British statement would "serve no useful purpose."

Young Bandit Slain by L. A. Policeman

Los Angeles, Feb. 27—(AP)—A young gunman captured in a spectacular downtown chase after he critically wounded a traffic policeman was shot and killed last night by two detective sergeants who said he made a break to escape.

Police identified him as John Green, 21, who came here from Helena, Mont. three days ago.

The policeman, hospitalized with a bullet in his spine, is Art Fraide, 26.

The chase started at Ninth and Main streets when an unarmed off-duty policeman took after Green, driving a car reported stolen from a parking lot. Fraide was pulled in an exchange of shots four blocks later amid scores of on-lookers.

Green, wounded in the arm, drove two blocks more before he was trapped by traffic at Third and Main. Two other policemen with drawn guns captured him.

Taken to a hospital, his arm was treated and he was being led out down a ramp by Sgts. Harry Fremont and Ray Varela when the fatal gunfire cracked. Varela said Green asked for a cigaret, pushed him aside and ran.

He had taken about 10 steps when three bullets from the detectives' guns brought him down, dead.

The earliest known use of animal-glue was at least 3,300 years ago. A stone carving depicting the process of gluing was found on the site of the ancient city of Thebes.

The first year anniversary of "Harvey" as a touring attraction will be marked this week by the cast in the Pulitzer prize play starring Joe E. Brown and now in its seventh month at the Harris theatre, Chicago. Because of the inclement weather any celebration planned for the invisible, white rabbit has been postponed until Easter time.

This Chicago company has established new theater records wherever it has appeared. According to the calendar count the first year for this troupe was reached last December 21st but a six-week vacation was taken from their playing time before "Harvey" settled down in Chicago last August. With two baggage cars necessary for the two turntables on which the sets for the Elwood P. Dowd family home and the psychiatrist's office are built this Brock Pemberton production of Mary Chase's comedy started its trek in December, 1945.

Nine weeks were played in the Geary theater in the City of the Golden Gate and again new records for gross business and audience attendance were recorded. The "Harvey" company topped the previous high record of Helen Hayes in "Harriet." Then followed seven weeks in Los Angeles which has been a notoriously poor city for stage plays. Two or three weeks is the normal length of the engagement for any touring attraction. This company played longer and grossed more at the box office than any other play in the fourteen year history of the Biltmore theater under its present road show management.

Breaking records by this time was an established policy for Joe E. Brown and his pal "Harvey." In six one-night stands in California the gross of $42,000 is an all-time high figure not likely to be broken by a rival attraction for some seasons. After extended runs of eight days in Portland and eighteen days in Seattle the season closed June 8th so that the cast might take a vacation. "Harvey" reopened in Buffalo, N. Y., July 22nd and then played one week in Joe E. Brown's home town of Toledo before coming on to Chicago. Naturally another record was broken in Toledo in spite of 100 degree heat and a non-air conditioned theater.

Russian Is Critical of Ernie Pyle's Book

Moscow, Feb. 27—(AP)—The Russian magazine Znamya, in an article criticizing the late Ernie Pyle's book "Here Is Your War," today characterized the American war correspondent as a "reactionary."

R. Orlova, author of the criticism, found fault with Pyle for having a "lack of policy" in his writing, which Orlova declared distracted American soldiers from a conscientious and active respect for the fate of their countrymen and other peoples throughout the world.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Bert Solves the Labor Problem

You hear a lot about capital and labor nowadays, as if the two could never get together. But look at Bert Childers—who has 320 acres of producing land, a fair-sized herd of cattle, and two farm hands working for him.

If you called Bert a "capitalist" he wouldn't know what you meant, and neither would Spike and Sandy, the hired men. Bert works side by side with both of them; and in the evenings they sit around the fire together—sharing a friendly glass of beer or two.

If anybody has a beef—whether it's about wages or hours or equipment—they talk it over at those friendly evening sessions.

I don't say all labor problems are as simple as Bert's. But from where I sit, the basic principle applies to any farm or factory or business: A principle of confidence and mutual respect, of daily talks together in a friendly, and congenial atmosphere.

What's smart for '47? BUICK!

THAT grille's as fresh and fashionable as a Paris label in a new bonnet.

That long, clean, sweeping-all-the-way-through fender line is as much a "must" with the style-wise as white tie with tails.

There's the sparkle of bright, fresh colors—the rich sheen of chaste chrome—the sleek, slick, able look of an express cruiser, shined and polished for Regatta Day.

But is this the only way in which Buick's smart? Not by a barrelful!

Look at the engine room in that bonnet—that means torrents of Fireball power to put the lift of a lifetime in every mile.

That hug-the-road look means steadiness always—and cushiony coil springs on all four wheels spell serene disregard of any road's rude jolts.

Look at the width amidships that gives you lolling room both front and back—and at push-button controls that not only raise and lower the top, but move door windows up and down and the front seat back and forth.

And look deeper. At engines so fine-made they keep their new-car liveliness seemingly forever. At stout metals and sturdy underpinning; at husky, curl-around bumpers, controls light as a ladyfinger; at wheels that curb heel-

over on turns, and brakes both easy and sure.

Fact is, in this trim Convertible or any of the eight other body types, Buick's the smartest buy as well as '47's smartest car. It's the place where dollar-sense meets with style-sense to produce America's most wanted automobile.

Such being so—why hesitate? A day lost now in placing an order can be a week lost later in taking delivery, so—get your order in now!

News of Interest to Local Veterans

The Illinois Veterans commission today called attention to benefits provided by state law for the survivors of servicemen who died in the armed forces during World War II. Under the Illinois bonus program the beneficiary of deceased veterans dying in service between Sept. 16, 1940 and Sept. 3, 1945, will be paid $900 in cash. The state service recognition board now is setting up machinery for payment of the bonus.

When the bonus board has completed arrangements the $900 payment will be made to the deceased serviceman's next of kin in the order of husband or wife, child or children, mother, father, person standing in loco parentis, and brothers and sisters. Another benefit under state law is that providing $150 a year for the education of deceased veteran's children between the ages of 16 and 22. These children also are eligible to receive scholarships at the various state educational institutions.

Existence of these benefits were pointed out by the commission in connection with its current campaign to contact the next of kin of all Illinois servicemen who died during the war.

One of the aims of the program is to determine whether all school children eligible for these benefits are receiving them. In making such a determination, the commission desires to record the names, ages and birth dates of all children of deceased Illinois veterans of the last war. In Lee county headquarters for this campaign are located at the IVC service office at 105 W. Main building on East Second street, where Albert Ruggles and a committee of local veterans will assist the commission in locating the next of kin in this county.

Philadelphia — (AP)—The $5,828 that Policeman Daniel J. Carr found under a crate in an investigation of ration book thefts, still isn't his, despite a court ruling.

Maurice Felt claims half the money. "I moved the crate," says Felt. The money was awarded Carr because no one claimed ownership.

Expectant Mother Freed of Murder

Baltimore, Feb. 27—(AP)—Mildred Margaret Abney, 21-year-old expectant mother, was free of the charge of murder today after she told a federal jury her husband had suggested she "get rid of" her unborn child.

The blue-ribbon panel of bankers and businessmen announced its verdict yesterday after an hour and a half of deliberation. Spectators in the crowded courtroom shouted and clapped their approval.

The black-haired girl admitted on the witness stand she had pumped five bullets into the body of her husband, 28-year-old Sgt. Jean Richard Abney, of Junction City, Kas., after he spurned her attempt to patch up their marriage at Fort George G. Meade, Md., last Jan. 5.

"I begged him not to leave me," she testified.

"His answer was that he hoped my child would be born dead."

"I told him, 'If you are going to leave me now, I'll kill myself in front of you.' I showed him the

Strip Tax

Rochester, N. Y.—(AP)—A middle-aged taxpayer appeared before U. S. Deputy Collector Francis A. Dalton in the federal building with a problem.

"I owe the government $27.37," he told Dalton, "but its sewed on the inside of my underwear and I can't get it out in front of all these people."

Dalton led the way to an unoccupied cashier's booth where the frustrated taxpayer removed his long underwear, and plucked from it the money to meet Uncle Sam's bill.

"This," remarked Dalton, "is the first time I've ever had to strip a customer to get his tax."

gun. He taunted me, saying I didn't have the nerve.

"He walked me toward the bus. He pushed me aside and said he didn't want me. He said: 'You'll be better off dead.'"

"Then it happened. I just killed him. I just remember shooting. That's all. X X X Oh, God! I loved him so!"

New Radio Broadcast Tried Out on Russia

Washington, Feb. 27—(AP)—The state department tried out a livelier and more tuneful radio program on Moscow and Leningrad today in the hope that more Russians would tune in "The Voice of America."

Revamped at the suggestion of Ambassador W. Bedell Smith, today's one-hour Russian broadcast was arranged to include:

About 18 minutes of news instead of the previous 15 minutes; ten minutes of music with Jerome Kern ails displacing "Turkey in the Straw," a book review; ten more minutes of popular music; news headlines; and a technical feature on current science.

Neither the book chosen for review nor the subject of the science feature was announced.

As the World Day of Prayer services were held throughout the world, we all join in a united prayer that we might all help to make this a better world in which to live.

W. S. C. S.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist church held their February meeting at the parsonage, with a large number in attendance. A most delicious 1:30 o'clock dessert luncheon was served and the hostesses were: Mrs. Ernest Carder, Mrs. Harley Thomas, Mrs. William Itoomey and Mrs. George Foote.

The regular business session was held with the president, Mrs. William Roney, in charge and Mrs. Donald Ambler had charge of the devotionals. Mrs. B. R. Tyerman gave the review of the study book "Christian Motives and Methods of Stewardship" and this was followed by an informal discussion. This completed the book which was very interesting to all members. Everyone reported a very pleasant afternoon and all are urged to attend their next meeting which will be held March 19.

Right Track

Westbury, N. Y.—(AP)—A little brick station on a spur track which the Long Island Railroad abandoned is the answer to the housing problem of one veteran, Charles Wilson, 28.

He and his wife Catherine, were ready today to receive guests in the former station, now a snug bungalow after months of work by Wilson and his in-laws. The 27-by-17-foot building has three rooms and a bath.

Fellowship of Prayer

Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven. Matthew 6:10. Read Matthew 25: 31-40.

Hungry men are more aware of their stomachs than of God. Treated with injustice and contempt because of color of their skins, many find it difficult to believe that we all have one Father. Children who have drunken brutal fathers may even rebel against God portrayed as a Father. Millions who are victims of the sins of others have the tie of suffering to bind them to Christ; but, without the conviction that their stripes heal someone, God is frequently lost in their suffering. Jesus saw the necessity of frontal attacks on social as well as on personal evil. His thought dealt with such practical concerns of the Kingdom of God as hunger, shelter, clothing, prisons, money, labor relations, fear, justice, race, diseases of body and mind. His goal in these matters was clear and positive: "Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven. He cautioned us that we should find him in stern judgment or loving comradeship in accordance with our daily ministry to him "in haunts of wretchedness and need, on shadowed thresholds dark with fears."

Let Us Pray: O thou, who art the giver of all great and perfect gifts, teach us to pray not only in our inner chamber, but in all our ministry to social need. Show us that a cup of cold water given in the name of Christ, may become a profound prayer. So dwell in our hearts that we may convey thy spirit with our gifts. Amen.

Nanking, Feb. 27—(AP)—Nearly 125,000 tank-led Chinese communists have opened a fierce drive in Manchuria that has swept to within 15 miles of Changchun, the capital, government dispatches said today.

Unconfirmed press dispatches said government troops had withdrawn from Changchun's suburbs to the center of the city in anticipation of a communist attack. These reports said government officials have been evacuated.

Location Changes Occurring in Last Six Years Listed

Breakdown of Housing, Population Shifts Compiled by Mays

Changes in location of residents because of the war and employment in the ordinance plants were of unusual number, but the following figures show conditions before and after the war, compiled from the records of the Evans

Company's directory of Dixon for 1940, with those of the Johnson Publishing Co.'s directory printed in 1946.

Several residences have been built since the collection of facts for the 1946 book. Many houses near the city limits have not been numbered. At least 23 of them, 13 of which were owned by occupants in 1940, on the south end of College avenue are omitted in 1946.

The indication of ownership is not entirely correct, in the 1946 book. But with allowance for a few such errors, the following figures, which may interest the reader, are practically correct, according to V. G. Mays who sought information that might aid in the next financial campaign of the Dixon council of Christian education.

Number of Houses Listed

The number of houses, including apartments, listed in 1940, on the north side was 1,124, with 10 vacant, on the south side, 2,201, with 22 vacant, a total for the city, 3,325, with 32 vacant in 1940, the north side had 1,215, with 2 vacant, and 3 and more omitted, the south side 2,330, with 21 vacant and more than 23 omitted, a total for the city of 3,545, with 23 vacant and more than 26 omitted of these, 2,109 (776 on north side, 1,333 on south side) are owned by occupants.

The number of persons shifted out of 1940 locations, north side, 601, south side, 1,435, a total for the city of 2,036. Persons in new locations in 1946 north side, 769, south side, 1,628, with a total of the city, 2,397.

Total number of persons listed in 1946, outside the predominantly business districts and the residence hotels is 4,337, of which 1,492 are on the north side, and 2,845 are on the south side.

Third Street Populous
Counting streets divided by College avenue, as two of the same name, and avenues divided by the river as two of the same name, there are 168 streets (including avenues, places, courts, et al). Of these, Third street has the largest number of residents listed, 233 which with those of its eastern part, 61, make 294.

College avenue with 136, and those on its northern part, 109, has 245, besides those of business district.

Ranking next below these, are First street, 176 with those of its eastern part, 23 total 199.

Second street, 120 with those of its eastern part, 65 total 185. Peoria avenue, 161 with those of its northern part, 5 total 166. Lincoln Way, 52, with its east

Fellows street, 94, total 146. Chamberlin, 48, with its eastern part, 87, total 135.

There are eleven streets, each of which has only one residence on it, there are nine streets without any house or residence.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys
If backache and leg pains are making miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smart, burning, sometimes shows there's something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.
